Soccer Academy Approach

What sets the our soccer academies apart is the philosophy behind the approach. All staff members and instructors are not only players with the ability to demonstrate, but first and foremost teachers of the game committed to player development. Through an educational approach, instructors are well versed in all technical (individual skills) and tactical (decision making) aspects of the game and also understand the methodology of how to teach effectively and efficiently.

Academy Directors John Millard & Jan Morrissey have directed camps across various levels for 20+ years. Their love of teaching and emphasis on development has driven the camp philosophy. Within the Academy, all instructors teach the fundamentals of the game in a structured environment with a focus on developing the players for the future.

Key to the Academy's methodology is teaching a progressive age-appropriate and age-specific curriculum designed to motivate players and prepare them for the future. All players that go through our Soccer Academies program receive a consistent, yet innovative, approach with emphasis on learning through enjoyment while developing their skills and a passion for the game.

Our emphasis is on players getting as many touches on the ball as possible and providing plenty of opportunities to score goals. Through a small games-based approach (4 v 4, 8 v 8), our Academy staff provides soccer-related objectives that cover all aspects of the game.

The four components of the game (Fitness, Tactical, Technical, and Psychological) will be covered every day during an Academy session. The small-sided games-based approach is a proven mechanism to create the optimum learning environment that is fun and challenging to players of all ages and abilities.

Players Need: Appropriate Size Soccer Ball (Size 3 for up to age 8, Size 4 for ages 8-12), comfortable athletic clothing, sunscreen, athletic shoes (in case we go indoors), and soccer gear (cleats, shinguards, soccer socks, water bottle).
